What is a Utah House Aggie Adventures Youth Counselor?

The Utah House is seeking youth between the ages of 13-18 to volunteer as camp counselors for children's educational summer camps. Camps are day camps held at the Utah House. They emphasize hands-on learning, and explore a variety of different themes including energy, water, insects, plants, art, physics and chemistry.

Why Become a Youth Counselor?

Volunteer service is helpful to have when you're applying for scholarships, putting together a portfolio and building a resume. Volunteer service with The Utah House gives you valuable teaching and leadership experience and also offers great incentives. Upon completion of 20 volunteer hours and attendance of all counselor trainings you will receive an Incentive.

What Does a Youth Counselor Do?

As a counselor, you would be helping out with many aspects of the summer camps including assisting campers with their projects, answering questions, playing games, supervising campers at check-in and checkout.

How do I apply?

The application deadline is MAY 1, 2010. Applications can be found on our website www.theutahhouse.org and clicking on volunteering, go to youth volunteer. Submit your application in person to The Utah House Office, or fax it to (801) 546-1699, or mail to:
